INTRODUCTION

* With this issue of LASALLIANA we also begin a new year, from September to August, that will include issues 38, 39 and 40.

* It would be appropriate to point out, in the interest of the reader, one item relating to the citing of texts of St. John Baptist de La Salle that appear in several of the articles.

Since the French edition of the Complete Works of St. John Baptist de La Salle was published, any reference to texts has been made in conformity with the numbering system given in that publication.

This will facilitate the way that the works of the Founder are referenced for those who have the French edition available now, and in the future it will facilitate referencing for those who will be using the translations that are now in preparation in other languages. Normally these translations will adopt the same numbering system for the paragraphs that appear in the French edition.

These criteria have been used for the past several issues and they will even become more widespread in future issues.

There is no doubt that it is useful for everyone to adopt a numbering system that will facilitate, no matter the language, the immediate referencing of a citation.

* Once again we are grateful for the articles that have been sent to us. Let us remember that the material contained in these pages is open to and designed for all members of the Lasallian Family, Brothers and lay colleagues alike. Making these pages available to all those involved in the greater educational community is one way of sharing the gift that God gave his Church and the world in the person of St. John Baptist de La Salle and his work.

Fraternally,

H. José María Valladolid,
Director de LASALLIANA
